NEW FALL CARPETS!

The size and completeness of our carpet stocks this Fall can only be comprehended by such as have given the the carpet buying question a careful and thorough examination. The variety is complete, touching every part of the house, and while we have the largest floor area given to retail carpets of any store in the city or even in the State, there isn't a square foot to spare these days. The excellency of the stock shows itself in

Body Brussels	Art Squares
Tapestry Brussels	Rugs and Mats
Three-Ply Ingrains	Oilcloths
Extra Super Ingrains	Linoleums
Axminsters	Wiltons
Velvets	Mattings

And all these in the lightest, largest, most adaptable selling place.

Nor is this all. All the wealth of color, harmony and the freshness id design and the facilities for quick seeing and choosing isn't lost by reason of poor methods. The service is prompt and precise, the work rooms efficient, and the results so near perfection that our word is as good as a bond.

This comes of having the people who know how, trained by years of acceptable service.

We need hardly say a word about prices. As the largest buyers in the State outside New York we get the benefit of the lowest possible terms.

OLD FRIENDS.

There are no friends like old friends,
And none so good and true,
We greet them when we meet them
As roses greet the dew.
No other friends are dearer,
Though born of kindred mold,
And while we prize the new ones,
We treasure more the old.

There are no friends like old friends,
Where'er we dwell or roam,
In lands beyond the ocean
Or near the bounds of home.
And when they smile to gladden,
Or sometimes frown to guide,
We fondly wish those old friends
Were always by our side.

There are no friends like old friends
To help us with the load
That all must bear who journey
O'er life's uneven road.
And when unconquered sorrows
The weary hours invest,
The kindly words of old friends
Are always found the best.

There are no friends like old friends
To calm our frequent fears
When shadows fall and deepen
Through life's declining years.
And when our faltering footsteps
Approach the great divide,
We'll long to meet the old friends
Who wait the other side.
—David Banks Sickles.

PFEIFER'S TRIUMPH.

Pfeifer was a sergeant of marines, a fine, big, soldierly fellow, with a long, tawny mustache and wide open blue eyes that gave his stolid German face a frank, honest look, indicative of his character. It was in his service in the German army, before he left the fatherland for a new home in the "land of the free," that his broad, sturdy shoulders were "set up" in such soldierly fashion. He was a sergeant in the emperor's army, and afterward, when he came out to America and enlisted in the navy, he found service as a Jacky rather distasteful. The brief authority he had had as a sergeant had unfitted him a little for life in the ranks again, and although he was a good seaman and a faithful Jacky he grumbled under his breath once in awhile because the chance of advancement was so small and promotion so slow.

So, when his term was up, Pfeifer did not re-enlist. But he found after a little that he could not keep out of the service, and so he held up his hand beside his bare head and swore again to uphold the constitution and the government of the United States, but this time it was as a member of the marine corps, "a bloomin, jolly soldier and sailor too."

In the marine corps Pfeifer found that his service in the other two arms helped him very much. He was as steady as he was stolid, and as faithful as both. He knew the regulations backward, and all the requirements and duties of every man and officer in the corps. So when his rapid promotion landed him as a sergeant, he slid into the routine of his duties as easily and as smoothly as a seal slips off a basking rock into the sea. After awhile Pfeifer got an assignment to duty which made him very happy. He was detailed to command a detachment of marines on a United States warship under orders to patrol the Bering sea on the lookout for seal poachers.

There are no superfluous officers in the marine corps, and it sometimes happens that a sergeant has command of a small detachment on such duty. Pfeifer was delighted, and the men in his command were put through their drills and work with a thorough exactness which surprised some of them and made them a little inclined to grumble. The sergeant was a strict disciplinarian, and the men felt it, but he was not a martinet and he was enthusiastic for the service, and so the men settled down in the consciousness that Pfeifer was all right.

The warship went on her cruise and came back again, and Pfeifer's men were the pride of his heart. In not the smallest detail had the regulations suffered by their action, and the sergeant was happy as he contemplated the report he would make to his commanding officer. Then the warship was ordered to the Mare island navy yard for extensive repairs.

Now, there is a time honored and glorious custom of saluting the flag when a ship goes out of commission, in which the marines who have seen service on her take the largest part. The officers and the crew go ashore, all but one Jacky. Then the marines are drawn up on the quarter deck, facing the flag which flutters from the staff at the taffrail. The solitary Jacky throws his cap on the deck and stands bareheaded with his hand on the flag halyards, ready at the word of command to haul down the starry symbol of the nation's life and power. As the Jacky goes at his work and the flag begins to sink, the officer in command of the marines shouts:

"Present arms!"

Up go the guns with a rattle and a snap, and until the single Jacky has gathered the glorious flag in his arms to keep it from touching the deck as he hauls it down, every man Jack of the marine stands like a statue, with his eyes fixed on the stars and stripes and his rifle at salute. Then the marines march away. Jacky folds up the flag and tucks it in its berth, and the ship is out of commission.

Pfeifer knew every detail of the process. He could almost have told beforehand the very deck plank on which he would stand when he gave the order to salute the flag. He was all ready for the last order from the captain, but when it came it nearly knocked him down, for it was not the order he had expected. And, worse than that, it was not the proper order. The captain commanded him to take his men ashore, draw them up on the wharf and from that position to salute the flag as it fluttered down for the last time on the warship.

Pfeifer was absolutely astounded. For a minute almost he stood like a man stunned. Then an extraordinary thing happened. The stolid German servant, with whom obedience to orders was as natural and as necessary as the breath of life, broke every tenet and tradition of the regulations and protested at the captain's order. All the training of his years of service deserted him, and the man who, at his captain's command, would have stood his ground to the last gun fire and after that presented arms to death, rebelled when he found that captain breaking the glorious custom of years. It was to him the revolution and the demonstration of the impossible. The whole elaborate fabric he had built out of the traditions of army, navy and marine service came tumbling about his ears. The very foundations of belief were shattered by the single command which showed the sergeant that a captain who did not know his duty was, after all, a possibility. The color went out of Pfeifer's face, and he grew deathly pale. Then he saluted and said:

"But I beg your pardon, sir. It is not the regulation. I should salute from the quarter deck."

If he had received a blow in the face, the captain could not have been more surprised. It was a serious thing, indeed, when Pfeifer protested at an order. But the sergeant's objection was well grounded. It recalled the regulation to the captain, and he knew his order was a mistake. Nevertheless it was his order and he would not reverse it. He hesitated, and standing [illegible]: "[illegible] the order," he said. "Obey it."

They were standing on the main deck just outside the executive officer's office. The executive was at his desk finishing up the last of his work before going ashore. The window was open, and he heard all that was said by the captain and the sergeant. When he heard the order repeated, the executive looked out of the window. He saw Pfeifer standing, white faced and determined, facing the angry captain. The sergeant breathed in quick, short gasps, and as the executive watched he lifted his hand again in salute and said:

"The moment my men and I are ashore, sir, we are no longer under your command. My superior officer then is the commandant of the marine barracks. If I go ashore, sir, I cannot obey your order to salute the flag, for my duty then is to report at once to my commanding officer."

The captain's face went red and white, and he lost his grip on his temper. His voice rose to an angry shout, and he exclaimed:

"Take your men ashore and salute the flag from the wharf."

Without a word Pfeifer saluted, wheeled on his heel and went away. Presently the bugle summoned the marines to fall in. Pfeifer was at their head. Down the gangplank they marched, and on the wharf they formed up.

"Right face!" shouted the sergeant.

His well drilled men wheeled as one and stood facing the marine barracks.

"Forward, march," commanded Pfeifer, and off the marines of the warship swung to report to the commandant of the barracks, leaving an amazed and angry Jacky standing by the halyards, with no one to salute the flag as he hauled it down.

The captain was furious. He had been defied by a sergeant of the marines, and he meant to make Pfeifer smart for it, but he did not know that the executive had seen and heard it all. Pfeifer did.

Pfeifer went to the marine barracks and reported, but said never a word of the captain's order. His men were not so silent, and the barracks hummed with the story. The men knew there would be a reckoning, and they waited impatiently for the result.

The captain went to the admiral and told his story. The next morning Pfeifer was summoned before the admiral. There the captain confronted him. The captain was still angry. He knew down in the bottom of his heart that he had made a mistake, but he hoped to be able to force his complaint through by bluster, perhaps, if he couldn't make it appear bad enough for Pfeifer by his narration of the sergeant's refusal to obey his orders. So he told his story, and he counted that his word would stand against that of an enlisted man.

Then it was Pfeifer's turn. He gave a simple, straightforward account of what had occurred, and his honest face and soldierly bearing lent it strength. When it was finished, he added:

"And the executive officer was in his office, sir, and he heard all that was said."

"Orderly," said the admiral, "ask the executive officer to come here."

The captain's jaw fell, for he saw that he was caught in a double trap. He had failed to observe the regulations, and after that he had lied about it. He waited uneasily until the executive officer came. The executive's story was as Pfeifer had told it. A scowl came over the face of the admiral.

"You may go, sergeant," he said to Pfeifer, and when the sergeant had saluted and gone the admiral turned upon the captain and exclaimed:

"Captain Allenson, I am ashamed of you, sir. You are the damnedest fool in the United States navy. You are a disgrace to your uniform and the flag and the service. I am amazed and chagrined that you should require to be taught the regulations of your service by a sergeant of marines, and that man not a native of your country. You are a disgrace, sir, and I am ashamed of you."

Pfeifer walked back to his quarters with his head erect and a smile under his long, tawny mustache, but in his heart there was a shade of regret, for he liked the captain, who was a gallant sailor, after all, and besides, although he had triumphed, it was through a disobedience of orders. So the matter never went any farther.—New York Sun.

POWDERLY ON FREE SILVER.

Its Advocates, He Says, Have No Claim Upon Workingmen's Votes.

Former General Master Workman Powderly, of the the Knights of Labor, has come out for McKinley and Hobart and sound money. Mr. Powderly says:

"The silver men have been spreading the doctrine of free coinage actively for many years, and by incessant labor they have succeeded in committing some industrial organization to the advocacy of their theories. With such earnestness have they circulated the story of the 'crime of 1873' that the belief that silver was stealthily and surreptitiously demonitized has gained great headway. The fact is lost sight of that those who have exposed the alleged crime were themselves criminals according to their own theory. They sat in congress when the bill was passed, they took part in the debates, and by their votes aided in the passage of the act. Had the men who discovered the 'crime of 1873' not been owners of silver mines or did they not wish to unload their silver properties on the unwary no one would have heard of the act of 1873."

Speaking of Mr. Bryan, Mr. Powderly said that he never heard of Bryan championing a single labor measure. "He is vouched for by no one," continued Mr. Powderly. "He nominated himself in a speech about crucifying labor upon a cross of gold. His only solution of the difficulty is to break the limbs of labor upon the rack of silver.

Bryan speaks of gold plutocrats, but he does not explain why the gold plutocrat is any worse than the silver one. In Nevada, the home of the agitation for the single silver standard, there are less than 40,000 people. My home, the city of Scranton, has a population of 115,000 inhabitants. Deduct double the population of Nevada from the population of Scranton and you have 25,000 left. Yet Nevada has two senators to shout for silver, while the city of Scranton has not a single representative in the United States senate to boom our coal and iron and steel and to ask the government to double their value.

The First Sapphire.

There is an Indian legend that Brahma, the creator, once committed a sin that he might know the torments of remorse and thus be able to sympathise with mortals. But the moment he had committed it he began repeating the mantras, or prayers of purification, and, in his grief, dropped on the earth a tear, the hottest that ever fell from an eye, and from it was formed the first sapphire.

If you have ever seen a little child in the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of instantaneous relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrhoea it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it were a cure. A. W. Colegrove, Smethport, A. E. Stickles, East Smethport.

SICKLES AND SOLDIERS.

A Stirring Appeal for McKinley and the National Honor.

AN ADDRESS TO COMRADES.

Former Democrat Repudiates the Chicago Platform of Repudiation.

AN APPEAL TO PATRIOTS.

The One Legged Hero of Gettysburg Comes Out in a Stern Protest Against Sectionalism, Repudiation, Anarchy, Mob Rule and All That Is Represented in the Platform and in the Candidacy of Bryan and Sewall—A Paper Well Worth Reading.

General Daniel E. Sickles, a soldier whose personal courage and devotion to his country none dare gainsay, and who heretofore has been a staunch adherent of the Democratic party, has addressed a strong letter in favor of "McKinley and national honor" to those comrades who fought in the battles of the rebellion. It is certain that the words of General Sickles will not fall unheeded on the ears of soldier or civilian, for the brave and gallant warrior who commanded the Third army corps, and who left a leg on the field at Gettysburg as an earnest of his devotion, is second in popular esteem to no other living general of the Union armies.

The letter is as follows:

My Dear Comrade: I ask you to consider and reflect upon the sacred interests involved in the present situation of our public affairs. I know you love your country. You have given to it the best proof of devotion man can give—you have defended it in battle.

Let me urge you and every Union veteran to lay aside party feeling now and unite for national honor and for law and order, as you did in '61-'65 against treason and rebellion. The present crisis seems to be as vital to the welfare of the country as that which called us to the field before.

Some of the principles for which we then contended are again at stake. Sectionalism, repudiation and mob rule are threatened. Many of us were obliged to choose between our country and our party in those days. I feel that this is a time when all true patriots should stand together, preferring their country, its honor, good faith and untarnished name above all mere partisan considerations.

Hateful Sectionalism.

Mr. Bryan and many of his supporters are trying to combine the south and west against the north and east. This is sectionalism—of which the rebellion was the offspring. Will you follow these guides into dangerous paths, or will you not rather follow Washington in "frowning upon the first dawning of every attempt to alienate one portion of our country from the rest, or to enfeeble the ties which now link together the various parts?" Sectionalism has become hateful to most of our old adversaries in the south, who have outgrown the asperities of the war and are now as loyal to their united country as any of us. Union veterans, who fought for one Union, one constitution and one destiny, can never favor any candidate or party seeking to array one section of our common country against another.

Mr. Bryan proposes to pay all the creditors of our government in silver. This is repudiation. It would degrade and disgrace us as a nation in the eyes of the whole world. Among the creditors of the nation are the pensioners. If you consent to pay in debased silver the bondholder who lent his money to the government to arm and feed and clothe its troops, you consent at the same time to a reduction of one-half of the pensions awarded to the war veterans and to the widows and orphans of those who are not living. All the creditors of the government must stand or fall together. Many of you are pensioners or the friends of widows and orphans who are pensioners. Many of you have deposited your savings in savings banks.

Injures the Toilers.

Most of you are toilers at the plow, or in the workshop, or dependent on small salaries, in public or private employment. To all so situated the payment of wages and pensions and your savings in silver, not redeemable in gold, as proposed by Mr. Bryan and his hybrid allies, would involve severe losses and hardship. The cost of all the necessaries of life would be doubled, while the value of the money in which wages and pensions would be paid would be reduced nearly one-half. On the other hand the farmers would not be benefited, because they must sell their products for money worth only a little more than half its present value, based on a gold standard. Every producer and every workman would thus suffer. All business would be deranged. Employment would be difficult to find. Wages would advance very slowly, if at all.

Mr. Bryan assails the obligations of public and private contracts. He would not pay the public creditors in the money they have the legal and moral right to demand and receive. This would destroy the public credit. Mr. Bryan says the government has no use for credit—which is foolish. Washington, in his farewell address to his countrymen, admonished us to "cherish public credit as a very important source of strength and security." Mr. Bryan would despoil the citizen of his right to recover what is due to him from his neighbor according to the tenor of an obligation lawfully made. This would destroy confidence between man and man. Public credit and national honor are inseparable. When our people cease to feel a patriotic pride in the honor of their country they will surely lose a just sense of personal honor—and when both of these sentiments are lost the nation is lost.

Must Maintain Credit.

The constitution of the United States declares that "the validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred in payment of pensions, and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned." This pledge to all the world is consecrated by all the sacrifices and suffering of the secession war. We must make it good.

Mr. Bryan threatens to reorganize the highest court in the land so that its decisions shall satisfy the demands of the Populists. If elected he would make the judicial department of the government obedient to his will. He would destroy the independence of the courts of justice. This would overturn the framework of our constitution. This would be revolution.

Mr. Bryan proposes that silver shall be the money of this country. There is no nation, in which silver is the standard of value, where the wages paid for labor are more than a fraction of the wages paid to the American workmen. Nobody understands the evils of a depreciated currency better than the veteran soldiers and sailors because they were paid during the war in paper money not then redeemable in gold. This was the best our government could do for us during the war, and we made no complaint. Often this paper money was worth less than fifty cents on the dollar, while the cost of every thing you bought was double, but your pay was not increased.

Mr. Bryan denies the authority of the president and the courts of the United States to interfere with mobs. They may with impunity disturb the peace, destroy property and life, interrupt travel between the states, and obstruct the United States mails and interstate, as well as foreign commerce, but the government must look on, powerless, helpless, paralyzed. This is mob rule—anarchy. It is impossible to exaggerate the gravity of this issue. It really overshadows all others, because it touches the foundations of social order and civilization. This new doctrine is worse than the old secession heresy you put down with your bayonets—let us silence the new heresy by our ballots.

While many veterans may not agree with some of Major McKinley's political views, we are all I hope far more widely separated from the ruinous policy of his adversary. We feel as Stephen A. Douglas felt at the beginning of the war, when he gave his support to Lincoln, saying "Give me a country where my children can live in peace, and then we can have room to settle our political differences afterwards."

To those, who like myself have adhered to the Democratic party, let me say that the platform and candidate presented by the Chicago convention, are not Democratic. They are disowned and denounced by millions of the best Democrats in the land. No man of recognized authority in finance indorses the financial policy of the Chicago platform. You are not Populists, nor socialists nor revolutionists.

McKinley the Man.

Read the platform adopted by Democratic national conventions in former years and you will see that the last Chicago convention rejected all the best traditions of our history and adopted much of the revolutionary creeds of the Populists and free silverites and socialists, dictated by Altgeld, Tillman & Co. They repudiated you and your party and your principles. They have no claim to your support. Let us defeat them.

Comrade McKinley stands for all that Americans must now uphold. He has been chosen as the candidate of the party which is resisting national dishonor. You and I can do no better than give our votes to our comrade, who manifested his love for his country by shouldering his musket and serving for nearly two years as a private soldier.

His promotions were fairly earned by his courage and his faithful performance of the duties of an enlisted man in the ranks. His comrades may well trust him. He will see to it that the principles for which you and he have suffered and sacrificed so much, and for which so many of our comrades gave their lives, are preserved and perpetuated. A few days ago I met many thousands of our comrades in St. Paul during the national encampment. Among that vast multitude I only heard one voice, and that was for "McKinley and national honor." Once only did I hear the name of Bryan, and then the cry was, "No use for Bryan!" This will be echoed by the American people in November. "No use for Bryan!"

In this contest we must not be satisfied with mere success. The defeat of Mr. Bryan is sure. It is our patriotic duty to make his defeat and the defeat of all he represents so crushing that neither he nor his allies can hope for political resurrection.

Comrade, let us stand together once more for our country, its peace and welfare and honor. Let us put patriotism above partisanship. Let us stand together touching elbows, as Comrade McKinley stood with you in the ranks in 1861.

Fraternally yours,
D. E. SICKLES.

DEAD AT THE [illegible]

The Bryan Cause [illegible] Going Steadily [illegible]

REVOLT OF [illegible]

Indications That the [illegible] Is Going to Pieces.

NOTHING LIKE IT EVER KNOWN.

Nothing in the Remarkable [illegible] in the Character of the [illegible] Newspapers Supporting the [illegible] Produced Any [illegible], Intelligent or Common Sense [illegible] Cannot [illegible]—It Is [illegible].

As week after week has [illegible] the Chicago convention [illegible] set upon a platform of [illegible] and social and political revolution, the popular revolt against the [illegible] principles has been steadily [illegible] and swelling.

Bryan has been going [illegible]. He has made no progress [illegible]. There is not a state, there is hardly [illegible] district in the whole Union [illegible] perceptibly and decidedly [illegible] was on the 10th of July, when he was nominated with so much [illegible] and ominous excitement. He has traveled the country from Lincoln to New York, returned to Nebraska, and [illegible] still another stumping tour, [illegible] meanwhile scattering speeches by the hundred to big and curious crowds [illegible] way, but the popular sentiment [illegible] been growing along his path has been against him rather than for him.

From no quarter has there [illegible] promise for him. The state elections in Vermont and Maine, both [illegible] states, where there are no great [illegible] measured by the standard of [illegible] reached by so many towns of both the east and the west, have condemned him emphatically, more [illegible] any candidate for the presidency [illegible] put before the people. Even Arkansas gave him no encouragement, for in the state election Republicans rather than Democrats gained by his candidacy. Bryan there, so far as we can place any reliance on the returned results of the voting as an indication of the actual popular sentiment, Bryan and repudiation were a heavy weight for the Democracy.

The revolt of hundreds of Democratic papers of the Union against his revolutionary and ruinous scheme, [illegible] steadily during the past two months, includes the great majority of the journals of character, ability, and superior influence in every quarter. Of those papers nally supporting his candidacy there are few which do not betray their distaste for the task, or which even attempt reasonable arguments in his behalf, [illegible] and sincere respect for him [illegible] there are almost no evidences [illegible] Democratic papers of the south [illegible] to the advocacy of his election. Many of them are unable to conceal their [illegible] for him. None of them shows anything like real confidence in him. In fact, there is nowhere in American journalism any considerable, respectable, or [illegible] support of Bryan's candidacy.

Neither is there any [illegible] Democrats entitled to be described as leaders of the party or [illegible] esteem. The great men of the Democracy in all parts of the Union are either openly opposed to Bryan's election, or while they tolerate his candidacy it is [illegible] and admittedly because of its [illegible] regularity. Even among the Populists, for whose conciliation and as a concession to whom he received the Chicago nomination, the references to him are [illegible] disrespectful. The fusion with them, like political fusion generally, has proved unsatisfactory to both sides. The two tailed ticket provokes ridicule in both camps, and it becomes more and more evident that one or the other appendage must be cut off in order to give it any [illegible] whatever.

The degradation of the repudiation canvass has been increased and [illegible] by the necessity for the repudiation of honest money and patriotic principles and convictions previously declared by Democratic state conventions as a preliminary to the ostensible acceptance and ratification of the Chicago ticket and platform. Of course, so loathsome a proceeding only serves to increase and extend public contempt for those making the surrender, and for the political movement requiring it of them. Bryan electoral tickets put up by such conventions can only be regarded with popular derision. No Democrat of any self respect whose convictions have thus been played with is willing to subject his reputation to the disgrace of running as a Bryan elector. Nothing like this has ever before occurred in our political history. It is an absolute novelty of this extraordinary canvass.

What does all this presage? It argues to indicate that the Bryanite campaign will go to pieces so unmistakably during the coming month that little of it will remain to withstand the assault of the rising popular derision. In its whole course of two months nothing has tended to promise respect. Nothing in the arguments of the Bryanite advocates, in the character of the men and the newspapers supporting the movement which started off so confidently, or in the tone, spirit and methods in which it is conducted has produced any conviction among serious, intelligent and common sense men that it has in it even the semblance of enduring vitality. It cannot grow, for it has no [illegible] germ of life. It is dead at the [illegible].—N. Y. Sun.

Your Worst Enemy [illegible]

With the rheumatism in an indicated [illegible], if you have a Christian spirit, you would forgive, [illegible] no matter what his [illegible] [illegible]. Vote the Republican ticket.

See that your taxes are paid before Oct. 3d.

The free silverites are running down hill. See.

Unless you have paid a State or county tax within the past two years you cannot vote this fall. Attend to this matter.

J. C. CANNON JR., of Lewis Run, one of our candidates for county auditor, is an earnest young Republican thoroughly imbued with the honorable principles and well worthy of the position for which he was nominated, as evidenced by the respect he is held in at home, having received every Republican vote in his precinct. Give him a good rousing majority and thus encourage the young Republicans.

C. W. FREEMAN, of Bradford, our nominee for auditor on the Republican ticket, is well worthy of consideration. Against a large number of competitors he won the nomination for that important office, important from the fact that the board of auditors are elected to see that our public funds are judiciously expended. Mr. Freeman is deserving of our earnest support. His majority should be equal to any on the ticket.

SHERIDAN GORTON comes before the people this fall as a candidate to succeed himself as district attorney. Mr. Gorton is so well and favorably known that it is hardly necessary to make a mention of his candidacy. In the discharge of his duties he has become a terror to evil doers, having been fortunate in securing convictions on almost every indictment presented to the jury. A vote for Gorton will be a vote for the right man.

GEORGE W. MITCHELL, our able prothonotary and recorder, is a candidate for re-election. He has made an efficient and obliging public officer and in connection with his able corps of assistants it is a pleasure to transact business in either of the above named offices. It will be very gratifying for every Republican and many Democrats to cast their ballots for so able a man as Mr. Mitchell has proven himself to be. He should be elected by a largely increased majority.

J. S. DAVIS is a candidate to succeed Mr. Walker in the sheriff's office. For three years he has traveled the county in the discharge of his duties as deputy sheriff, and has performed those duties in a faithful and conscientious manner. Every voter in the county is acquainted with "Shorty." He certainly needs no introduction to the voters from anyone. There is no question as to his election, but there is a strong desire among his Republican friends to see his majority come up to the highest on the ticket.

Our two candidates for county commissioners are thoroughly known to almost every voter in McKean county. Lemuel Davis of Kane is a competent business man of extensive experience and by the large vote he received at home at last spring's elections, there is no question but that he is well qualified to discharge the arduous duties of commissioner. W. A. Young, our townsman, was born and raised in this county, is an excellent business man, has served as county auditor for three years and has thus gained an insight into public matters that will well qualify him for the duties of commissioner. The MINER takes pleasure in presenting to its many readers the above named gentlemen as candidates for county commissioners.

OUR two standard bearers for Assembly honors, Hon. H. H. North and ex-Mayor Richard Dempsey, the old veteran, need no introduction to our readers. The name of Mr. North is a household word in every home in the county. He has made an able representative in the halls of legislation at Harrisburg and is well and favorably spoken of as the next speaker of the House, and a largely increased majority this year will give an added impetus to his selection. He is an earnest advocate of the principles that are so dear to all Republicans and a great many Democrats—sound money and good government. Mr. Dempsey likewise should receive the vote of all who favor the above principles. He shouldered his musket in 1861 and offered his life to his country that the principles we love and cherish might live. Kind fortune spared him, and after filling many positions of honor and trust in his home city, at the age of 59 years he is our candidate for one of the highest offices his fellow county citizens can give him. Both are honorable men whom we can take justifiable pride in electing. See to it that they have a rousing majority.

GRAND REPUBLICAN RALLY.

The Republican rally at Bradford last Tuesday night was a grand success in every feature. Although the day was disagreeable, owing to the rain and cold, the Opera House could not hold one-half of the people who were anxious to hear two such able exponents of sound money and good government as John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, and David Healy, of New York. Consequently the Lyceum was secured, which was quickly filled with a quiet and orderly crowd.

At the Opera House Chairman Grubb called the meeting to order, after which Secretary W. B. Clark read a long list of vice presidents in which every voting precinct in the county was well represented. Hon. H. H. North was chosen as chairman and in an able manner introduced Hon. John Wanamaker as the first speaker of the evening.

The gentleman commenced by paying a pleasing tribute to his audience, and especially to the many ladies present, as well as to the pleasant surroundings. The speaker carefully went over the ground that is the cause of our business depression in a calm and matter of fact way, like a person entertaining a party of friends in his own parlor. For over an hour he kept his large audience thoroughly interested, his pleasant ways and gentlemanly demeanor winning him a host of friends in Bradford. Mr. Healy having finished his speech at the Lyceum, these two gentlemen exchanged places. The latter gentleman was then introduced, and, although suffering with hoarseness so that at first he could hardly be heard, he soon warmed up to his subject and completely captured his large audience by the earnestness of his discourse. He handled his subject without gloves, and while he used no abusive language he brought forth such an array of indictments against the Democratic party that if they should live until doomsday and use all that time in defending themselves, there would several indictments remain over to be tried in the next world. Anyone who listened to Mr. Healy, if they were tinctured with Bryanism and silverism, would not have felt very proud of their doctrine after the speaker finished his argument. The large audience retired to their homes well pleased with the speakers of the evening.

At the Lyceum Hon. R. F. Stone presided and in opening the meeting made an address that made all present feel good natured again over their failure to gain admission to the Opera House. Mr. Healy was then introduced and being so well known in Bradford he found it an easy task to capture his audience and every Bradfordite will take a justifiable pride in calling Mr. Healy his friend, even though there may be some whose opinions conflict with his on the political question. His earnest way of dealing with the living issues of the day must have carried conviction to his many hearers. When Mr. Healy finished that sound Democrat who prefers his country's honor to party fealty, J. M. McClure, addressed the gathering and the writer heard many people, both Democrats and Republicans, express their approbation over the course that he is taking in this campaign and in the able manner in which he discoursed upon the issues of the day.

Mr. Wanamaker was then introduced and many who had followed him to the Lyceum claimed that his second speech was better than the first. This finished the evening's proceedings and it would be hard to find a better pleased crowd anywhere.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

If any Democrat in the State of Pennsylvania can tell where he is at he is possessed of more wisdom than generally falls to the average Democrat. On the 15th of last April the Democratic party of the State met in convention at Allentown and drew up a platform on which any honest Democrat felt that he could safely stand and in which they declared that they were "absolutely opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver." On the 10th of September the Democrats of the State held another convention at Harrisburg and endorsed the Chicago platform, which favors the free and unlimited coinage of silver. Below will be found extracts from both conventions.

ALLENTOWN	HARRISBURG
We are in favor of the maintenance of the gold standard. While we favor the most liberal use of silver consistent with the entire maintenance of a gold standard, we are absolutely opposed to the free coinage of silver and to the compulsory purchase of silver bullion by the government. We believe that the interests of the people demand that the wage of [illegible] agriculture, manufactures and commerce, and especially the wages of labor should be paid in money of the greatest purchasing value and of the highest standard adopted by the civilized nations of the world. We are, therefore, unalterably opposed to all devices and schemes for the debasement of our currency and to all evasions and compromises of a question so closely affecting individual and national credit and honor.	Resolved, That the platform of principles adopted by the late Democratic National Convention at Chicago be accepted by this convention as the expression of opinion of the majority of the fully accredited representatives of the Democracy of the United States upon the issues involved in the present political campaign, and that we heartily endorse the same, and particularly that plank in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1; and that this convention confidently appeals to the people of Pennsylvania for the support and vindication of those principles at the ensuing election.

If the Democratic party can stand this kind of a blow hot and blow cold it is certainly endowed with a vitality that would stand any kind of hardship. It is like giving a patient a dose of physic and before the disagreeable effects of the dose have passed away, to give him an emetic and between the two medicines a terrible disarrangement of internal affairs would naturally follow that would have a tendency to land the patient in the cemetery. So with the Democratic party, they are straddle of the fence and do not know which side to get off on.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21, 1896.—"The better the news the harder we'll work," is the motto which governs Republican headquarters, and it is being lived up to. The silver men are on the retreat in every State in which the Republican national and congressional committees have made a real fight for McKinley and honest money, but as yet the retreat is orderly. By redoubling their efforts, the Republican managers believe they can make it a complete rout on the 3rd of November, so complete that the free coinage of silver by this country alone will never again be made a national issue, and nothing less will satisfy them. They are working with all the vim and energy they could put into the campaign as if the chances for Republican victory were doubtful instead of the victory being assured as it is. This pleases all the visiting Republicans, as it enables them to go home and tell their friends that there is no danger from overconfidence on the part of the men who are managing the campaign.

Chairman Babcock, of the congressional committee, is now giving special attention to the congressional districts, and by the middle of October he will know about what the size of the Republican majority in the next House will be. Two years ago when Mr. Babcock gave out his figures, they were hooted at by the Democrats and many Republicans were disposed to smile at them, but when the returns came in, it was seen that they were based upon direct information from every congressional district. Mr. Babcock is proud, as he has every right to be, of his record as chairman of the congressional committee. He doesn't believe in the wisdom of making big claims based on nothing but hope, as the Popocrats are now doing. He thinks it possible always to obtain information as to how at least 90 per cent of the districts will go several weeks in advance of the election, and he wants the public to take his figures as careful estimates and not as a mere bluff for effect.

The using of the official organ of the Knights of Labor as a campaign document by the Bryanite managers has been quickly followed by ugly charges against prominent officials of the K. of L. These charges are made by responsible parties and allege that drafts have been made on Mr. J. L. Norris, assistant treasurer of the Democratic national committee, in favor of Master Workman Sovereign and Gen. Secretary-Treasurer Hayes, who are in immediate charge of the Journal of the K. of L., published at Washington, and that similar drafts have been drawn in favor of officials of the K. of L. at Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Paul and paid through a Washington bank. The stir created by these charges is by no means confined to the K. of L., who do not approve of the selling of the influence of the organization to Bryan, but extends to all who are opposed to bribery as a political agent, and may result in a rumpus of large dimensions in the K. of L.

About the most notable thing connected with the appearance of Mr. Bryan in Washington Saturday night and his speech on that occasion was his gall in making the farewell address of George Washington the basis of his speech which endorsed the Chicago platform. "Even the heavens weep," said a gentleman present when the rain storm put a sudden stop to Bryan's speech. Washington said: "In contemplating the causes which may disturb our union, it occurs as a matter of serious concern that any ground should have been furnished for characterizing parties by geographical discriminations, northern and southern, Atlantic and western, whence designing men may endeavor to excite a belief that there is a real difference of local interests and views." Designing Mr. Bryan is seeking the Presidency through arraigning class against class and section against section. Again, Washington said: "As a very important source of strength and security cherish public credit." Mr. Bryan's principal business is the advocacy of a depreciated currency, which will injure both private and public credit.

There have been some more or less amusing stories in connection with Mr. Bryan's coming to Washington to make a speech. In the first place there was no end of trouble in getting a place for him to speak, then there was more trouble about the distribution of tickets for seats and about music, the local committee seemed to fear that some unauthorized band might get into the base ball park, in which the speaking took place and which, by the by, was paid for by two saloon keepers whose places are opposite the main entrance, and play some piece of music that would give Mr. Bryan the razzle dazzle right before the crowd. There was a crowd, just as there would have been at any other free show, and the proprietors of the bar rooms who paid for the park made a good speculation, even if the crowd was not up to expectations in size.

THERE has been considerable talk about the wonderful growth of silver sentiment in Chautauqua county, N. Y. Last Monday night the MINER man, while in conversation with a prominent gentleman from that county, inquired if there was any truth in the rumors circulating about the great growth of the silver doctrine. The gentleman replied that there was not the least foundation for such a rumor. He also offered to wager that his county would give 5,000 majority for McKinley and Hobart.

TAMMANY'S leader John C. Sheehan sent a telegram last Tuesday to John Boyd Thacher who was nominated at Buffalo last week as a candidate for governor on a free silver platform to send in his resignation. The Tammany tiger can stand almost anything but Thacher's letter of acceptance in which he announced himself as a sound money Democrat but willing to run on a free silver platform, was too much of an emetic for the tiger and the consequence is that Thacher, like Jonah, has been thrown overboard.

BRYAN is swinging round the circle.

FALL THINGS.

Fitting up for winter is important enough to bring you to Bradford and this store. Our cost saving doesn't amount to much on a paper of tacks, but on outfitting a home it counts. Saving in dollars and worry and regrets—funny that everybody doesn't buy here.

STOVES.

In our store year ending Sept 1st we sold over 500 stoves. That's a wonderful record. Prices did it. We sell stoves cheaper—all stoves considered—than any other store in the state.

LAMPS.

Fall styles in—many a hundred kinds.

Lamps are cheap this year, and they are cheaper with us than with most stores. We have some fortunate purchases.

DINNER SETS.

Over 40 styles in stock. Prices start at $6 the set. They go as high as you want. We are selling 113 piece set of Haviland China for $28 this month—4 new styles.

TOILET SETS.

We sell toilet sets made in warranted wares from $2.25 per set up.

We have enough styles to give you all the choice you want, and more.

HARNESS.

From $7 to $50.

Genuine rubber trimmed harness—hand made—oak stock—our price $21. A regular $30 harness. That's how we sell harness.

HORSE GOODS.

Flexible rubber back curry combs. Oil blacking and leather dressing for harness. Oat screens—wooden stable forks—horse covers—blankets—whips, etc.

DEMORIST SEWING MACHINE $19.50.

The $55 style.

These are facts. Come and we will tell you the reason.

PAINT.

Rubber Paint for those who want a lasting paint—20 colors and white. It lasts like rubber and is rubber.

—Wednesday's game between Austin and Smethport was a farce pure and simple. Austin is evidently trying to roast Smethport, otherwise they would not allow that infant aggregation to wander so far from home. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children should make the mothers of members of this kindergarten class take better care of them. This trundle bed tribe were allowed one run to pacify them while Smethport scored twenty times before the game was called.

—Two of Kane's young society people went to Buffalo on Tuesday of last week and on Wednesday evening at nine o'clock at the home of the bride's grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Becker, Rev. Cutter joined Miss Kate Becker and Walter H. Smith in the bonds of matrimony. The young people are both residents of Kane and highly connected. A host of friends and the Kane Republican join in wishing them a long life of happiness and all their troubles little ones.—Kane Republican.

—The many lovers of fine music will regret to learn that Mr. H. Cumberland Wilson has accepted a position with St. Stephen's church of Olean as organist and choirmaster. He will enter upon his duties Oct. 1. Frequent mention of Mr. Wilson's excellent work as organist and choirmaster has been made in these columns. He leaves with our best wishes for his continued success. St. Stephen's church at Olean is to be congratulated on having secured the services of one of the best choirmasters in the country.

—The concert given under the direction of Mrs. Adelaide Sanborn last Thursday evening at the Methodist church was a decided success, all who took part acquitting themselves in a highly satisfactory manner. Mrs. Sanborn and Fred Berryman rendered a piano duet in a very creditable manner. Mrs. F. E. Brothers manipulation of the pipe organ was excellent. As a vocalist Miss Elida Wright is certainly a complete success. Verna Hafner also sang her part to perfection. Messrs. H. A. and George Hiscox, played several selections on guitars and harmonicas. The effect was novel and highly appreciated by the audience. Mrs. Carpenter's vocal solos were very fine. Miss Grace E. McCoy played several very fine selections in an artistic manner. The concert as a whole was one of the best we have had the pleasure of listening to, and adds another testimonial that Smethport cannot be excelled for musical talent.

Obituary.

Last Thursday night, at 6:30 o'clock, Frank Irons closed his eyes to all earthly objects, after an illness of five weeks with typhoid fever, aged 23 years.

His death was not unexpected, as the fever had taken such a strong hold upon him that it was only a matter of time ere the young man would succumb to the fell destroyer. The funeral was held last Sunday. The members of the K. O. T. M. assembled at their tent promptly at one o'clock and made preparations to march to his late residence. About 40 knights, decorated with mourning badges, formed in line and proceeded to the house of sorrow at which a large number of relatives and friends were congregated. Sheridan Gorton then marshalled the knights in front of the house in a double right angle line between which the pall bearers carried the remains of their brother. Twelve spearmen formed an arch with their spears at the hearse. The aged mother who was bowed in grief at her great loss with the other relatives then followed and entered carriages. The Knights marched ahead as an escort to the Baptist church. The edifice was filled to overflowing with sorrowing friends of the departed. Rev. J. R. Taylor preached an eloquent sermon paying a [illegible] mother [illegible] This securing an insurance in the Maccabees order of $2,000, half of which goes to his mother and the other half to his sister Mrs. Jud Harker.

The remains were taken to Rose Hill Cemetery where they were placed in their earthly resting place under the auspices of the beautiful burial services of the Maccabees, Sheridan Gorton officiating. Thus has another good man gone to his final reward with the satisfaction of knowing that he had done all in his power to make those nearest and dearest to him happy and comfortable. He leaves a father mother two brothers and a sister to mourn his early departure.

Temperance Lecture.

The union meeting held last Sunday night at the Baptist church under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. was a decided success in every feature. The church was packed with interested listeners and some of them went away disappointed but were loud in their praises of the lecturer Mrs. Ella Boole. Miss Amelia Scull presided in an able manner. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Taylor opened the meeting by informing the audience of its object. Rev. J. W. Sanborn led in prayer. Mrs. Boole was then introduced and for over an hour kept her listeners intensely interested. She is a forcible speaker and handled her subject without gloves and like the Irishman at Donnybrook fair she hit a head wherever it appeared. Her lecture was interspersed with little pleasantries that kept her audience in a pleasant mood and eager to hear more. When she would occasionally assume this strain her utterances had an almost imperceptible quiver that made it all the more attractive. But, when in the earnestness of her subject her voice was clear as a bell and carried conviction to the hearts of her listeners. If all the temperance workers in the land were as earnest and thorough in their work as Mrs. Boole it would not be long before the temperance cause would become so prominent and effectual in the land that homes which are now threatened with destruction by the fiend strong drink would become the abiding place of happy and contented families. May her worthy example be followed by other members of the W. C. T. U. until our land has been redeemed from this terrible curse.

A Quiet Wedding

The handsome residence of Jas. A. McKean on East Main street, was the scene of a pretty wedding Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. when Miss Margaret Mary only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKean was united in marriage to Fred D. Gallup [illegible] a member of the well known firm of Boulton & Gallup of this place. The rites were solemnized by Rev. [illegible] McCandless rector of St. Luke's Protestant Episcopal church and were witnessed by only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. After a wedding dinner Mr. and Mrs. Gallup left on the [illegible] train for a ten days honeymoon visiting New York, New Haven Conn. [illegible] Yale colleges, Hartford Trinity College and Philadelphia. Upon their return they will for the present make their home with the parents of Mr. and Mrs. W[illegible]

This couple are well known [illegible] and we feel safe in predicting for them a most pleasant voyage through life and extending the heartiest congratulations of the Miner and a large circle of friends.

Fire in the Gressley Building

At about 10 o'clock last Friday night the cry of fire was heard in our town [illegible] the whistle blew and aroused those who had retired. Clayte Backus was the first to discover the flames issuing from the roof of the Gressley building on Main street, occupied by A. C. Gould as a grocery. The hose company was soon on the scene and went to work with a will to battle with what seemed to all a hopeless task. With the fire coming from both ends and the roof of the building it really seemed as though the entire row of buildings was doomed to go down in ashes.

Too much credit cannot be given the hose boys for they worked against terrible odds, and only for their cool heads and pluck, a vacant spot would meet the gaze on the northern side of Main street.

The origin of the fire seems to be a mystery. The entire stock was ruined by fire and water and the building is also badly burned.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS REWARD.—The Management of the Smethport B. B. C. will pay $100.00 to any nine ball players residing in McKean county who will defeat the team whose names are given above on the Smethport grounds, Oct. 6, 1896. For particulars address M. L. Armstrong.

Jesse L. Test, Esq., an old resident and highly respected citizen of our town, called this morning and after purchasing a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, said: "If anyone asks you if this remedy will do what is claimed for it, tell them yes, and refer them to me." H. Alexander Stoke, Reynoldsville, Pa. No one can doubt the value of this medicine after giving it a fair trial. Then it is pleasant and safe to take, making it specially valuable for children. For sale by A. B. Armstrong & Co.

Riley & Wands, the wholesale and retail grocers, of Olean, N. Y., invite all people in this locality to make their store your headquarters during the four days of Olean's street fair, Sept. 29 and 30, Oct. 1 and 2.

I am offering registered Shropshire rams, ewes and lambs free if Bryan is elected and at one price if McKinley is elected.
M. L. ARMSTRONG.

Your cough was occasioned by careless exposure to draft. Cure it at once with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Roasted nuts fresh fruit every day. Cheap at any prices. Get [illegible] early.

St. Matthew's Church, Eldred.

The new Episcopal church known by the name of "St. Matthew," was opened for divine service on last Sunday. The plans of the church were procured from Mr. Halsey Wood, of Newark, N. J., the architect of St. Luke's church, Smethport. Ground was broken in April last and the building was pushed forward as rapidly as good substantial work would allow. The church is a very unique and beautiful structure, having been pronounced the finest frame church-building in the Diocese of Pittsburgh. The dimensions are about 63x31, including chancel and porch. The large spacious chancel extends the full width of the nave, rising by a succession of seven steps to the altar. A porch is at the entrance, with double front and interior doors, making a very convenient vestibule. The vestry-room opens into the chancel from the southeast end of the main building and a stairway from this room reaches the large Sunday School and Guild room below, where the ladies of the Guild have every convenience in the shape of kitchen pantry and large room for social gatherings and church work. The windows in the church are of an amber color rolled cathedral glass and give a very warm and sunshiny appearance in all kinds of weather. The well proportioned altar and all the chancel furniture came from drawings by the architect executed at East Aurora by S. H. Peek whose work will bear the closest inspection. The whole building and all its furniture exhibits the perfect taste and correct design of an accomplished church architect. Mr. Halsey Wood stands at the head of his profession in this country. There is no plastering in the building the roof and walls being lined with narrow matched Georgia yellow pine, filled varnished and rubbed. Dividing the chancel from the nave is a large carved beam or girder surmounted in the center by a cross and forming the outlines of a rood screen. A velvet carpet is in the chancel and the aisle is covered with matting. Messrs. Coon and Kauffman were successively engaged on the work of the building and as much of the work as possible was done in the town.

On Saturday afternoon there was a benediction service when the altar lectern and other church furniture were solemnly set apart by prayer and blessing for sacred use in divine worship. The church will be consecrated in due time by the Bishop. The first service on Sunday was the celebration of the Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a. m. followed by Morning Prayer and Litany at 10:30 o'clock. In the afternoon the Rector of St. Luke's Smethport brought his choir of 22 members, accompanied by many others from Smethport by special train and at 3:30 there was a full choral service, such a service as the choir renders at Smethport on the evening of the first Sunday in each month. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis were Tours in F forming two brilliant anthems in themselves. The anthem after the sermon by Rev. Mr. Prescott, was Mendelssohn's "I Waited for the Lord." Following the short address of Rev. Mr. McCandless the choir sang the great chorus, "The Heavens are Telling" from Haydn's "Creation." The processional hymns were No. 390 sung to an ancient plain song melody and No. [illegible] Jerusalem the Golden" the hymn before the sermon No. 507 was sung to Whitney's triumphant martial music with its soprano obligato in the latter half of the tune. Those who had never before heard such a service sung by such a choir as St. Luke's had a great and delightful surprise and will have to travel far and wide to find such another talented choir. After the service the choir and others were served with refreshments by the ladies of the Guild whose kind service was heartily appreciated and to whom a vote of thanks was tendered by Rev. Mr. McCandless seconded by Mr. L. Rogers.

Every face beamed with happiness that afternoon and St. Matthew's church starts out with good will and God speed from all sides.

Services at St Luke's

Anthem in the morning will be "By Babylon's Wave" by Gounod; in the evening "Hear my Prayer" by Mendelssohn.

Monday evening being the eve of the Feast of St. Michael and All Angels, full choral evensong with special anthems viz Gounod's "Psallite" and "There was War in Heaven" by Cruikshank.

Autumn Arbor Day

[illegible]

A waste acre which produces nothing is a reproach to any country, and he who has a wasted life is a disgrace to him who has left it. Therefore let the weight of your character and example be the public duty of covering the barren hills and mountain tops of the State with trees, whose leaves will distil moisture into the air, whose trunks and bark will furnish material for our industries, and whose roots will aid in producing fresh soil to replace that which is washed down the streams and rivers into the ocean.

If you, in your day and generation, fail to do this, the order of nature will be violated and a penalty will inevitably be invited upon the land for whose prosperity you will be responsible.

The abundance, in future, of the matured fruit of orchards, forests and fields, will be in proportion to your individual activity in tree planting and in forest restoration.

Trees may be planted both in the spring and in the fall of the year. In accordance with a time honored custom, I appoint Friday October 23, 1896, as Autumn Arbor Day, and earnestly urge directors, superintendents, teachers and pupils to observe the day with appropriate exercises, both by the planting of trees and by the dissemination of information on the growth and care of trees and their value to present and future generations.

NATHAN C. SCHAEFFER,
Superintendent Public Instruction.

How to be Handsome

It is a mistake to suppose that the only way to be good looking is to be born so. Good health has more to do with good looks than anything else—such diseases as constipation dyspepsia, liver complaint, rheumatism, nervous disorders, etc., not only shorten life, but spoils tempers and looks. Bacon's Celery King for the nerves cures these troubles. A. W. Colegrove, Smethport, C. H. Benson, Colegrove, and S. W. Stickney, Newerf, sell it and will give you a trial package free.

Rev. Mark Minser, a Dunkard minister of Deckers Point, Pa., says he can recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to anyone in need of a good liniment, and that he considers it the best he has ever used. Pain Balm is especially valuable for rheumatism, lame back, sprains, swellings, cuts, bruises, burns and scalds. It is one of the most remarkable remedies in existence and its effects will both surprise and delight you. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by A. B. Armstrong & Co.

Not one complaint has ever been made by those using Ayer's Sarsaparilla according to directions. Furthermore, we have yet to learn of a case in which it has failed to afford benefit. So say hundreds of druggists all over the country. Has cured others, will cure you.

It is not unusual for druggists to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to their customers. Many of them have used it themselves or in their families and know from personal experience its great value in the treatment of coughs, colds and croup. They know too that their customers are their best friends and naturally wish to give them the most reliable medicine they have for these ailments. Messrs. Dougherty Bros. prominent druggists of Indiana, Pa., say, "We sell more of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than of any other cough syrup, and always take pleasure in recommending to our customers." Mr. H. M. Urey, the popular druggist at Fredonia, Pa. who has sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for several years, says: "I can truly say that it is the best cough medicine in the market." WILLIAMS' OLD STAND.

Many cases of so called heart disease, are only cases of acid fermentation in the stomach. The irritation from the acid hinders the action of the heart, through the pneumogastric nerve, and very often the excessive straining power of this peculiarly acting nerve, becomes a very serious matter; the heart makes the greatest effort to do its work, but there is a shortness of breath which cannot be made up for, and the feeling throughout the chest is very distressing. Sometimes this acid arises and causes an acid smarting in the throat; at other times the burning is up and down the chest.

Another stomach trouble is that form of dyspepsia which gives pain after eating. Persons with this disease seem to have but a scant measure of nerve strength, when food is being digested, the stomach needs the concentration of all of the nerve and brain force, and if reading or close thought is attempted soon after eating, the stomach commences that intolerable aching which dyspeptics dread so much, when, the only immediate relief appears to be to stop the mental activity and get up and move around. In such cases there is evidently for the time being, too little nerve power to divide between the stomach and the brain; each one alone needs it all to enable it to perform its labor.

There are two properties possessed by Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic, which constitute it a cure for all of the above derangements. One, is its power of purifying and sweetening the stomach and stopping the formation of gas and acid; the other is the giving of increased nerve action and strength. Soon, with better digestion and better nutrition, there is a general renewal of life and health.

WHAT SUSTAINS SILVER.

Why These Dollars Buy as Much as Gold Ones.

HEART OF THE QUESTION.

Effect of An Absolutely Unlimited Coinage of Dollars.

IT WOULD MEAN REPUDIATION.

Reasons for Believing That the Majority of American Voters Are Not Yet Qualified to Become Inmates of Padded Cells—The Reply of Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle to a Correspondent in Kentucky.

Secretary Carlisle's statement that a great many letters are addressed to him daily from all parts of the country inquiring how it is that silver dollars containing only fifty-three cents worth of bullion are kept at a parity with gold is directly in line with The Herald's experience.

Correspondents apparently well informed in other respects ask, "If a silver dollar is worth only fifty three cents how is it that I can buy as much with one of them as I can with a gold dollar?" Others write, "There is no provision for having the silver dollars redeemed by the government, yet they are good as gold. Why, then, wouldn't they be just as good under free coinage as they are now?"

These questions go directly to the heart of the whole silver question, and Mr. Carlisle puts the matter very clearly in his published letter addressed to a Kentucky correspondent. All of the four hundred and thirty odd millions of silver dollars coined since 1878 have been manufactured by the government on its own account from bullion purchased for that purpose at its market value. They have been paid out by the government at a parity with gold for goods and services and accepted in good faith by the people on that basis.

The government received from the people the full gold value for these coins and is under moral obligation to keep them at that level. This it has done. It agreed to accept them for dues to itself, made them full legal tender in payment of debts to individuals and has never discriminated between silver dollars and gold ones. Aside from the moral obligations there are others. In the Sherman law passed six years ago congress declared it to be "the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other," and again in the act of November 1, 1893, this declaration was renewed.

With these assurances the people have accepted the silver dollars at their face value, regardless of the continuous shrinkage in the value of the bullion they contain. There have been times, however, when a mistaken financial policy excited creditors doubts as to the ability of the government to keep the pledge and at those times our foreign creditors drew gold out of the country and the more timid among our own citizens began to hoard the yellow metal, the result being general restriction of credit and commercial disaster as in 1893. What excited these doubts? The fact that the government was issuing too many silver dollars under the Bland law and subsequently [illegible] silver bars.

It is a fair and intelligent [illegible] of the silver dollars or printing notes on the gold [illegible] and leave the country and the government would be unable to keep the silver at a parity with gold. It was this fear that caused the panic of 1893 and led congress to stop the issue of this money. Nearly 500 millions of silver dollars and Sherman notes however had already been created and the government has had some difficulty in keeping this mass together with the 346 millions of greenbacks at a parity with gold, being forced at times to purchase [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] people have accepted [illegible] of these silver dollars in payment for goods and services at their full gold value. It would be a wholesale repudiation on the part of the government against its own citizens and the dollars being full legal tenders would compel all debtors to repudiate half their obligations, cut down pensions, wages, salaries, saving bank deposits and insurance policies one half and overwhelm the whole country in disaster.

The majority of American voters are not yet qualified to become inmates of padded cells.—New York Herald.

VOTERS MUST QUALIFY.

State Chairman Boyer Issues a Note of Warning.

The copy of the following letter has been sent to each of the county chairmen and is self explanatory:

My Dear Sir:

Please have the Republican papers in your county call the attention of voters to the necessity of paying their taxes on or before Oct. 3, that being the last day taxes can legally be paid in order to qualify the elector to vote on Nov. 3 next.

Yours very truly,
H. K. BOYER,
Executive Chairman.

When?

We're going to have a glory land
In this land by and by
When Bryan is elected and
The other chaps [illegible]
The hens with patriotic zeal
Will change their yellow legs,
And every morning they will lay
A batch of silver eggs.
The cows will strike against the rule
That used to suit our mind,
And for the golden butter they
Will give the silver kind.
The trees, that always seem to weep
In gold when autumn grieves,
Will brace themselves at once and go
To shedding silver leaves.
When hunters go to seek the game
That's flying to the pot,
Discarding all the old time kind,
They'll carry silver shot.
When builders build new houses then,
As now their cash affords,
They'll plank them side and roof and floor
With silver weatherboards.
When housewives get their homes cleaned
With strained and weary backs,
They'll tack their beaten carpets down
With silver carpet tacks.
The railroads, with their usual vim,
Will go to all the sales
Of bullion, and quite so [illegible]
Equipped with silver rails.
Thus will the earth be silvered o'er
And sea and sky and air.
Then will the New Jerusalem
Have silver pavements there!
When Bryan is elected!
Yes, When???

MAJOR BYRNE'S APPEAL.

He Speaks for the Democratic Honest Money League.

Major John Byrne, president of the Democratic Honest Money League of America, has, by request of that organization, issued an appeal to the honest money Democrats.

He denounces the men who made the Chicago platform and nominated the men to stand on it as wicked conspirators, animated by selfish greed, and says that they are working solely in the interests of silver producers and speculators in this and all other countries.

Among the elements enlisted in behalf of this scheme of public robbery," he says, "are:

"First—The commercial and financial depression, resulting in hard times, and which is further aggravated by the demand for the free and unlimited coinage of silver. This condition is being used in the most unconscionable manner to mislead and dupe the suffering people, to excite them in their extremity to act from blind passion rather than calm judgment.

"Second—Those who have been shown an apparent opportunity to avoid honestly contracted indebtedness, and in grasping it are duped by its falsity. They should know that the adoption of a dishonest dollar would lessen the opportunity to earn any kind of a dollar by destroying enterprise and driving capital to cover, the consequence of which will be robbery of both debtor and creditor.

"Third—Enlisted in this canvass are the disloyal, who would establish license on the lines of anarchy in place of liberty regulated by law; the Tillmans, the Altgelds and their sympathizers and followers, the element which dominated the Chicago convention.

"The absolute dishonesty upon which this scheme of plunder rests and the methods of falsehood and slander utilized to secure to it the support of the people whom it will most damage are simply monstrous. Wall street, contrary to the hopes indulged in by many, will not in the end be the loser. Wall street's education in finance, its facility for adjustment to changing conditions will enable it ultimately to profit by the change of standard. Wall street will have effected a change before the new standard is erected, and will be ready to meet it and profit by it.

"All capital saved from the resulting crash will likewise adjust itself in time to the new conditions, and will charge any loss incurred to the people who can live only by labor, so that after all it is the people whose capital in life is labor, whether it is in the workshop, in the mine, on the railroad or the farm, who cannot escape the consequences of this wickedness and to whom a day lost is lost forever and to whom a mistake is an injury forever and consequently a crime, who must bear the burden, and to whom at last this question is of vital importance."

Dairy and Creamery.

Cows do not carry much of their milk around in their udders. Some of it is there, but much of it is secreted or formed during the milking process.

Why farmers and dairymen do not use land plasters and deodorizers more and save the manure as well as prevent bad smells is one of the things no fellow can find out.

Plant successive strips of corn to come in one after another, the successive plantings being about three weeks apart, to furnish green fodder for the milk cows when the grass begins to fail. The earliest planting of sweet corn can be made to furnish the fodder early in July.

It is very little trouble for the dairyman to weigh and test each cow's milk so that he will know which of them pays her way and which should be sent to the butcher.

If the oats that you cut up for one good ration for the cow were allowed to come to maturity, they would produce two quarts of oat grains.

One handful of land plaster to one cow's stall is enough to deodorize it and absorb the liquid manure.

The faster the population of a region grows the more milk will be wanted, and consequently the more corn for fodder. Fodder corn will grow in any of the eastern and northern states, although the grain will not ripen before frost.

The earliest crops that can be planted for feeding green to the milk cows are barley and oats. Just as the oats are forming the head, while they are in the juicy stage, cut for feeding. The stalk is then tender and juicy all the way down to the roots, and the whole of it may be used for this soiling feed.

In planting for the green fodder crop be particular to get just the kind of seed that will thrive best in your locality. The best kinds of fodder corn are by no means the best for field crops intended to ripen. Plant first the very early varieties.

The Australians are trying a new way of packing butter which they think will do away with the chilled chambers. It is as follows: The butter is packed in cubical boxes made of glass, the joints being covered with adhesive, greaseproof paper. The boxes vary in size, holding from 1 pound to 200 pounds. When a box is filled, it is covered with a quarter of an inch of plaster of paris and this with prepared paper or canvas. The plaster, being a nonconductor of heat, preserves the hermetically sealed butter.

Don't Grow Careless.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania should not grow careless and indifferent in the present campaign simply because our state will give the Republican ticket a tremendous majority. There are issues at stake which vitally affect us. The Democrats have indorsed a platform which means, if it means anything, that repudiation. The sturdy citizens of the grand old commonwealth of Pennsylvania should stamp their seal of disapproval on such a proposition. We are not ready to repudiate our debts simply to please a few rattle-brained theorists. Another thing which should be borne in mind by Pennsylvania Republicans. The representatives of the party in the national convention have pledged themselves in favor of a protective tariff which will cause the revival of the industries which have languished ever since the Democrats assumed control of the affairs of government. Republicans of Pennsylvania must arouse and organize in every district to defeat the party which has sold its birthright for a mess of pottage, and has thereby driven from its ranks all the self respecting men who are opposed to repudiation and anarchy.—Hollidaysburg Register.

People Won't Have It.

One of our best Indiana county farmers remarked the other day that three years ago, under the McKinley tariff bill, he sold his wool at the rate of $2.23 for each sheep. Under the Democratic free trade arrangement this year he only got 75 cents a head. That's the sort of "a change" the Democrats gave us four years ago. They now want us to try another experiment in the shape of free coinage. But the people won't have it.—Indiana Messenger.

IT WELL becomes the free silver campaign to rail against the gold standard as British, while at the same time demanding British free trade and a British income tax.—Omaha Bee.

IT is just as well for Mr. Bryan that he should do his talking in Maine after the state election. It would have been tragic indeed if he had had to bear the responsibility of that 50,000 plurality.

FARMERS know that the $250,000,000 worth of export trade and the $38,000,000 worth of import trade they lost the first year after the repeal of the McKinley law was not on account of the "crime of 1873."—Mansfield (O.) News.

WHERE are all the farmers that were sure for Bryan? Not in Vermont, nor in Maine, certainly, and their numbers must have been exaggerated in Arkansas, where the Democratic plurality is only about three thousand greater than it was in 1894.

OUTSIDE the principal silver producing states there are no indications that the cause of Mr. Bryan is nearly so strong as it was in July. In the Mississippi valley, where it was agreed the great battle would be fought, nothing has occurred except the steady disintegration of his forces.

THE Seattle (Washington) Post Intelligencer, speaking for a money borrowing community, remarks: "Bryan talks arrant, demagogic nonsense when he speaks as if the only people who loaned money in this country were foreign bankers. The greatest money lenders in the country are the 'common people,' who have deposited in savings banks about $1,750,000,000, nearly all of which is invested in interest producing securities."

HERE is what Editor J. P. Shale, of the McKeesport News (Dem.) says of the political situation: "I am satisfied that the policy of the Democracy set forth in its platform as adopted at Chicago and indorsed by Mr. Bryan is not in keeping with Democratic principles, or in the interest of the American people. Should our mints be thrown open for the free and unlimited coinage of silver, the wage earner, the merchant and the professional man alike will suffer in consequence. I am not willing to be a party to the wrong. I therefore will vote and use my influence for the success of the Republican ticket."

THE Chicago platform is without a redeeming feature to commend it to patriotic citizens of any political faith. There is not a single vital attribute of Democracy presented in it, with the single exception of the perfunctory paragraph on equality of tariff taxes. It is a proclamation of organized repudiation, agrarianism and anarchy, and it must summon every intelligent and patriotic citizen, regardless of political affiliations, to most heroic battle against the triumph of a madness that is as deadly in its aim as was the madness of secession in 1860 and without even the poor excuse that secession had for its crusade.

> Roscoe Conkling, on the inflation of currency: "I do not believe that you can legislate up the value of anything any more than I believe you can make generals heroes by legislation. The continental congress tried legislating values up by resort to penalties, but the inexorable laws of trade, as independent as the laws of gravitation, kept them down."

Peter's Bright Retort.

Peter Riley of Sioux City, is a skilled mechanic and a sound money man. B. K. Adams is a free silver shouter at present unemployed. He buttonholed Riley on a street corner and proceeded to ply him with silver arguments. A crowd soon gathered to listen to the discussion. Riley is no orator and saw himself getting the worst of the discussion. To illustrate a point he finally cried:

"How many of you are silverites?"

"We all are," yelled the crowd.

"And are any of you gold men?" queried Riley [illegible]

Dairy and Creamery.

Mr. J. T. Bentley is an Ohio man who is the proprietor of some gathered cream plants. He had the greatest trouble in getting the cream sweet and free from taint. At last in despair he began pasteurizing the soured and tainted cream. He resolved to see what the effect would be, since he knew it could be no worse than conditions then were. To his surprise he found that cream which he had been hopeless of obtaining any good butter from made after it was pasteurized a perfectly clean and sweet butter which sold readily. It did not have so fine a flavor as June butter, but that defect can probably be remedied by bacillus 41. Finding he could make good butter from imperfect cream by pasteurizing it, cooling it and then churning it, Mr. Bentley went further. He recklessly dumped all the cream he received into a common vat, sweet, sour, off flavored and otherwise, then pasteurized and made butter from it. He found, as before, that the butter was perfectly sweet and clean flavored. This is a great discovery for creamery men.

A dairyman says that if you buckle a 2½ inch strap fairly tight around a cow's body in front of her hips and udder it will be impossible for her to kick backward. She cannot contract the muscles of her upper leg.

Milk containing 5 per cent butter fat should make about six pounds of butter to each hundred pounds of milk.

There is only one thing two-thirds of the cheese at present made in America is fit for, and it is hardly fit for that. It is to bait mouse and rat traps. Even dainty mice smell it, sniff and pass by.

Sour cream cannot curdle in heating because it is practically curdled already by the souring. It is only when milk is just beginning to sour that it curdles by heating.

Good, rich cream will churn one-sixth more commercial butter than the amount of butter fat in the cream. This is because of the added weight of water, salt and casein in the butter. A pound of butter, therefore, is commercially worth six-sevenths of a pound of butter fat. That is, butter fat is worth to the pound more than the butter after it is made. Some creameries settle the difference by paying for butter fat the same price they receive wholesale for their goods. A pound of butter fat is considered to be worth one-seventh more than a pound of butter.

THIS MEANS YOU.

Do you own horses or cattle? Pulsifer's Veterinary Medicines for horses and cattle are warranted to substantiate each claim made for them. Your dealer is authorized to refund the money in every instance of failure to effect a cure of any disease specified on our labels, if used according to directions. You don't risk a cent by a trial. What more can you ask?

PULSIFER'S COLIC CURE.

This preparation is offered to the public as a portable, harmless, yet certain substitute for the old-fashioned bulky remedies heretofore employed in the treatment of that most dangerous disease COLIC. A syringe for administering the dose accompanies each bottle, and the whole package is so compact that it can be easily carried in the pocket. The price at which it is sold is much lower than any other colic cure on the market, thus reducing the actual cost of curing a case of colic to five or ten cents. The dose is only thirty drops, given without diluting.

You can't fool with colic, nor waste time hunting up medicines. Veterinaries can't always be found when wanted, nor are drug stores always open. Pulsifer's colic cure is all the veterinary or drug store you need. It should be kept in the stable ready for use.

There is more fatality among horses from colic than from any other cause. Unless some immediate relief is afforded the chances for recovery are slight. Inflammation sets in, resulting almost invariably in death. Pulsifer's colic cure never fails to cure Spasmodic, Flatulent Colic, or stoppage of the Water, if treatment is begun within one hour of the first attack. It has often cured where no relief has been given for hours. Pulsifer's colic cure avoids delays. Delays mean dead horses. Horses cost money. A concise manual describing the symptoms of the ordinary diseases to which the horse is subject, together with the simple method of treating the same. Mailed to any address on receipt of two-cent stamp.

All of Pulsifer's medicines are for sale by A. T. Palmer at his livery, feed and sale stable, Smethport, Pa.
